STORM STRIKES SAVANNAH, GA. AND ENVIRONS

No Casualties Reported; Belief Held Property Damage May Be Limited.

By The Associated Press

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 15—A rapidly-moving hurricane swept inland from the Atlantic ocean today lashing Savannah and its environs with 80 to 100-mile winds, and menacing beach areas with towering waves. No casualties were reported.

First reports indicated limited property damage, but the National Guard said Chatham airport had been hard hit. At least two C-47's belonging to the National Guard were destroyed.

U. S. highway No. 80 into Savannah still was open, but littered with fallen trees. Worst damage in Savannah appeared to be uprooted trees and smashed windows.

The hurricane, which split off the tropical storm which moved across Florida and out into the Atlantic last Sunday, passed over the Georgia coast between 6:30 and 7 a. m. Hunter field reported 95-mile gusts when the anaemometer blew away.

Tides Hit Seawall

Tides were piling over the seawall at Savannah Beach and the weather bureau said further high tides were expected to inundate two-thirds of Tybee island, on which Savannah Beach is located.

Evacuation of the beach areas was accomplished during the night. The highway linking Tybee island and the mainland was under water.

At West Savannah airport, Louis Spott of the fleet air service reported two hangars unroofed and several planes damaged.

The last hurricane to strike Savannah was in 1940. Many of the city's historic oak trees were blown down then and exposed buildings were damaged.

Centered at Savannah

The hurricane appeared to be centered close into the Savannah area. Brunswick, another port city 81 miles to the south, reported high winds but no damage. Fear was expressed, however, that expected high tides might isolate St Simons and Sea island, thickly populated beach resorts.

Gusts blew ventilators believed hurricane proof, off the federal building in Savannah.

The Miami weather bureau said earlier hurricane force winds were about 75 miles wide and the strongest would prevail between Darien, Ga., and Parris Island, S. C.

High tides were a major threat to the low coastal areas, most of which were evacuated along the 300-mile South Carolina-Georgia coast alerted. The water was pounding up over the seawall in Charleston harbor and backing up in storm sewers to flood streets in some portions of the famous old Battery section.

Power which failed during the night was being restored. Streets were littered with palm fronds and small limbs, but damage was negligible.

Large Area Affected

The storm developed rapidly in intensity from the second center at sea after its first center had spent most of its force.

Preliminary weather bureau warnings said hurricance winds would extend over an area 75 miles in diameter when the storm hit the coast. Dangerous gales extended outward 150 miles from the center. It was the second battering the Georgia-Carlina coastal area has had from the storm as it traveled northward. Yesterday it sent towering waves against the beaches.

Meanwhile, southern Florida continued to battle raging floods caused by heavy rains which accompanied the storm as it swept across the peninsular over the week end.

A state of emergency was declared at Fort Lauderdale, Miami Springs and Hialeah, Fla. Miami also lay in the path of the vast flow of water rushing from the Everglades to the sea.

Activities of Y. M. C. A. Reach 3,663 Residents of Marion

This is one of a series of articles dealing with the welfare and character building agencies which participate in the Marion Community Foundation drive opening next Monday. The articles explain the work and program of the agencies and their urgent need for support in the annual campaign.

One hundred ninety-six different clubs, classes, teams, and other groups, representing 3,663 persons of Marion community, make use of the facilities of Marion's Y. M. C. A.

In addition, records show that in the past year 69 different groups — church, school, farm, labor, patriotic, civic, social agencies and others not identified with the Y—held 390 meetings in the building with a total attendance of 6,627 men, women, and young people.

This year the Y has set up a budget of $17,715 in the Foundation, to maintain its program.

Unless subsidized by funds from outside sources, the cost of Y activities would be prohibitive to the average boy and girl.

Of the 3,663 persons enrolled in the various groups, two-thirds do not hold memberships and their participation is the Y's contribution to character building in Marion community.

The 23-member board of Marion men in charge of operating the Y, with complete control of policy, program, personnel, and budget, recently quoted Dr Studebaker of the U. S. Department of Education: "As never before, America is being aroused to the need of conservation. This is as true of human resources as of material resources. Agencies such as the Y. M. C. A., designed to inspire youth and to build up their strength physically, morally, and spiritually, are of tremendous value during these trying times."

Primary Function

One of the primary functions of the Young Men's Christian Association is finding, training, and utilizing boys and girls, men and women, of all ages in the work and program not only of the Y, but in many other agencies and activities in the community.

Asked to list events considered to be outstanding in recent years, these were named.

Organizing of the Club Co-Ed, which now has a membership of more than 600 young people who occupy quarters that are considered among the best-equipped and most attractive of any youth center in Ohio;

The Gra-Y, Hi-Y, and Junior Hi-Y clubs;

The annual "Learn to Swim" campaign, which this year resulted in 59 boys and girls passing all tests and 58 others learning to swim;

Assisting service and ex-service men by providing free lodging and towels and extending a three-month free membership after discharge;

Free service in listing rooms for rent and helping people find rooms;

"Back-a-Boy" memberships by which any deserving boy is given a free membership upon the recommendation of his school principal and the juvenile judge;

Extensive remodeling, redecorating, and equipping of the basement and first and second floors to make the building more attractive and more serviceable:

Providing new equipment for the Business Men's club, whose members pay $18.00 a year for their use of the Y, as compared with $5 charged boys and $3.00 charged girls:

Organizing a basketball league and "touch football" teams for grade school boys.

Among City's Oldest

The Y. M. C. A. is one of Marion's oldest character-building institutions, having been organized in 1892 and having occupied its present quarters since 1893. The worldwide Y movement was organized in 1844.

Many of Marion's established and flourishing character and

CITY FOLLOWS NO MEAT PLEA

Restaurants and Hotel Dining Rooms Find Tuesday Substitutes.

Marion observed the second "meatless Tuesday" under President Truman's food conservation program with a fuller measure of cooperation by hotels and restaurants than did a majority of other Ohio cities.

According to Associated Press report from Columbus, O., eating establishments generally were leaving it up to the patrons and serving meat when it was ordered. In most cases only one or two meat items appeared on menus. Some cafe owners did post "meatless Tuesday signs."

One major Columbus restaurant posted placards saying "This is meatless Tuesday, let your conscience be your guide." Cincinnati restaurants were split about 50-50 between compliance and non-compliance.

Marion Falls in Line

In Marion, however, meat eaters who dined out found slim pickings, as the city fell in line with the government advocated program.

Virgil Dye manager of the Hotel Harding, where no meat was served and bread only when ordered by patrons, reported about 99 per cent of his patrons uncomplainingly surveyed the meatless menu and ordered chicken and other of the substituted items.

A few he said apparently did not believe in the meat serving restriction and emphatically expressed themselves. On the whole however, patrons willingly accepted the plan, he observed.

The Harding will mark its sec-

GUN SHOT WOUNDS CAUSE MAN'S DEATH

Plymouth Street Man Found Fatally Injured at Home.

William Witzel, 64, of 164 Plymouth street died at 9:14 o'clock last night at City hospital of a head wound which resulted from the discharge of a shot gun at his home at about 5:20 p. m. yesterday.

William E. Marks, police chief, said it was impossible to determine whether the self-inflicted wound was accidental or intentional.

According to reports to police Mr. Witzel had not been despondent. Neighbors told Chief Marks that a half hour before the shooting, he had helped a family carry a heating stove into a nearby house and helped set it up. He had returned to his home only about 15 minutes before the shot was heard.

Police were called at 5:20 p. m.

TAFT CALLS MEETING OF HIS TOP ADVISERS

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, Oct. 15—Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R-Ohio) called his top advisers together in Ohio today to discuss the campaign of his predicted drive for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination prior to sharing a double-bill here tomorrow with Harold E. Stassen.

Although Taft's campaign manager, a Washington aide, his press agent and others will attend the conferences today in Cincinnati, the senate domestic spokesman told the United Press that no announcement regarding his candidacy would be made this week.

Principal subjects of the meetings are likely to be finances for any presidential campaign put on, a proposed swing through the southwest to follow up Taft's appearances in the west and midwest, and speaking engagements for the balance of the year.

Attending the meetings reportedly will be Rep. Clarence J. Brown, (R) of Blanchester, Taft's campaign manager; Press Agent William McAdams; DeWitt Sage, the senator's aide in Washington, and B. E. Tate, Cincinnati businessman.

State Republican Chairman Fred Johnson, Zanesville, who was originally scheduled to attend the meetings will not be able to make the trip, he said at Columbus. Johnson said he talked with Taft and Brown by phone earlier this week and would not go to Cincinnati.

ALL ABOARD PLANE DOWNED AT SEA SAVED

62 Passengers, 7 Crewmen Taken from Craft Floating in Atlantic.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—All 62 passengers and the crew of seven have been rescued from the giant flying boat, Bermuda Sky Queen, which was forced down in the storm-tossed north Atlantic yesterday, Coast Guard headquarters here announced today.

Completion of the rescue, which began last night, was reported by radio shortly after 6 a. m. in a message from Capt. Paul B. Cronk skipper of the Coast Guard cutter Bibb, which took the 69 aboard after standing by the stricken plane since it landed in high seas 820 miles off the Newfoundland coast.

The Coast Guard said it had notified the Bibb to destroy the abandoned plane as a menace to navigation and to proceed to Argentina, Nfld., with the rescued passengers and crew. The Bibb is expected to arriv eat Argentina early Friday morning.

Agree To Scrap Plane

The message from Cronk read: "All passengers and crew aboard. Will advise further passenger details after careful check. Recommend plane be destroyed. Pilot Martin agrees."

A second message from the cutter captain fixed the number of rescued at 62 passengers and seven crewmen. Earlier reports had a total of 62 persons aboard the plane.

Seventeen men and a woman remained aboard the wave-tossed air liner last night awaiting daylight and the resumption of the Coast Guard's rescue operations which earlier had transferred their companions to the Bibb.

The plane was forced down when it ran short of fuel while bucking heavy headwinds on a flight from Ireland to Gander, Nfld., and the Coast Guard cutter went to its aid.

Raft Overturns

Rescue operations, so perilltraught that at one time a raft carrying 15 persons overturned, were suspended last night.

Five hours later, the Coast Guard reported weather conditions had improved with the wind blowing about 35 miles an hour and the waves calming to heights between six and 12 feet. Waves up to 30 feet high buffeted the plane when it landed and hampered rescue operations.

The wind, the Coast Guard said, had carried the plane about 60 miles from its landing place yesterday, with the Bibb remaining alongside.

Capt. Cronk, master of the Bibb, said in a radio broadcast last night that he and the downed plane's pilot, Charles Martin, had agreed to suspend operations for fear that the heavy seas and inky blackness might cause a collision between the air liner and rescue craft, sinking either or both of them.

Use Oil Slicks

Rescue operations, Cronk said, consisted of quieting the turbulent water with oil slicks and shielding the plane from the wind by maneuvering the Bibb upwind.

Among those rescued yesterday were 15 women and 13 children, including two infants.

Cronk reiterated that 44 persons were taken aboard, the Bibb before operations were halted last night. An earlier report said 48 had been rescued.

Pilot Martin sat the giant plane down on the water about three miles from the Bibb and taxied the remainder of the way. The Coast Guard described the landing as "incomparable."

Five trips between the Bibb and the plane were made before rescue operations were suspended.

Clayton Resigns Post In State Department

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15—William L. Clayton quit today as undersecretary of state for economic affairs but agreed to stand by as an unpaid adviser to the secretary of state.

His wife's health was given by Clayton as the reason for his resignation, effective at the close of business today.

President Truman, accepting the resignation with reluctance, expressed "great satisfaction" over Clayton's assurance of his willingness to return to the public service if Mrs. Clayton's health improves sufficiently to permit him to do so.

LEWIS FACES NEW AFL FIGHT

Catch-All "District 50" Attacked After Mine Chief Loses Battle.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15—John L. Lewis, stripped of a vice-presidency in the AFL after an historic outburst of name-calling among the federation's top leaders, faced still another battle today over his miscellaneous collection of unions in Mine Workers' District 50.

Underneath the current of bitterness which swept the 66th annual convention was the growing threat that Lewis still might take a walk with his 600,000 United Mine Workers over the District 50 controversy.

But anti-Lewis forces went right on with plans to bring the jurisdictional squabbles with District 50 before a tribunal which he could not control.

Fight Over Resolution

The fight was due to come over conflicting resolutions offered by a majority of the resolutions committee headed by a long-time Lewis critic, John P. Frey of the metal trades department, and a minority represented by Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the UMW.

Lewis took the gloves off in his first convention speech yesterday, stinging the leadership into fighting mood by calling them "intellectually fat and stately asses."

The issue was the signing of non-Communist affidavits.

Lewis would not sign the Taft-Hartley affidavit disavowing Communism, saying it was an insult.

FINDLAY GUNMAN BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

By The Associated Press

FINDLAY, O., Oct. 15—Leonard Johnson, 27-year-old gunman captured after an hour's seige in a church, awaited grand jury action today on four charges and was held under bonds totalling $25,000.

Johnson pleaded guilty yesterday before Mayor Clarence H. Gassman to a charge of assault with intent to kill and another of carrying concealed weapons. However, he denied assaulting three Findlay policemen or that he was guilty of kidnaping Rev. John E. Knox, rector of the Trinity Episcopal church.

The charge of assault with intent to kill arose from threats against Mr. Knox, who was held prisoner for an hour until a state highway patrolman shot Johnson.

Gassman set bond at $10,000 on the kidnap charge and $5,000 for each of the other charges.

Indiana Boys Admit Causing Train Wreck

By The Associated Press

KOKOMO, Ind., Oct. 15—Two eight year old boys, Police Chief C. A. O'Neill said last night, admitted tampering with a railroad switch which caused the derailment yesterday of a Pennsylvania railroad passenger train, resulting in minor injuries to two women passengers and three trainmen.

O'Neill said the boys told him they opened an unlocked switch partly and put a spike between the main and switch rails. Engineer Ernie L. Decker, 40, Richmond, Ind., told O'Neill the switch was not open enough to cause the red signal to light but it changed to red as the front trucks struck the switch.

The 175 passengers on a trip from Chicago to Cincinnati proceeded to their destination on another train.

FOUR INJURED IN POLICE CAR

Lima Officers Taken to Hospital After Car Hits Tree at Kenton.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Oct. 15—The Lima police chief, two officers and a Lima stenographer are in Antonio hospital with injuries suffered when their car crashed into a tree one mile south of Mt. Victory on route 31 at 8 a. m. today.

Most seriously injured were Kermit L. Westbay, 42, police chief, and Ellis D. Vandemark, 38, policeman. Less seriously injured were patrolman A. F. McCullough and stenographer Rosamond Walton, 30.

The four were enroute to Columbus to testify in a liquor board hearing scheduled this morning in Columbus.

According to officer McCullough, the police car with the chief at the wheel swerved to avoid a milk truck which made a left turn in front of their car. The police car went off the road and crashed a tree in the yard of Wellington Jolliff.

The milk truck was driven by Junior Chamberlain of Mt. Victory. State highway patrolmen are investigating the accident.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD GIRL SEES FOR 1ST TIME

By The Associated Press

MIDDLETOWN, Ky., Oct. 15—Thanks to kindly neighbors' help in this little town and a skilled surgeon's work in New York City, five-year-old Joyce Marie Seward is back home here today able to see for the first time in her life.

Attention had been drawn to the pretty blonde-haired girl's plight after her father, Andrew Seward, was killed near here in a truck explosion last February.

Neighbors took interest in the family and Joyce Marie, who had been blind since birth with physicians giving her scant chance of ever being able to see. The day of the father's death the last of the Seward's six children was born.

The people of this town organized and staged two amateur minstrel shows, the proceeds going to pay for an operation on Joyce Marie's eyes.

In New York on Sept. 17, Dr. Conrad Berens performed the delicate operation which restored sight. However, another operation will be necessary in a year or two to complete the surgical work.

Arriving home yesterday, Joyce was asked about the first thing she saw after the operation. She replied:

"I saw the doctor." Then she added, "I'm Dr. Berens' sweetheart."

"DRIVE REDS OUT OF REICH, IF NECESSARY"

Book Asks All Steps Short of and Including War To Stop Soviets.

By R. H. SHACKFORD
United Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15—Former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes urged the United States today to challenge the Soviet Union with threats of separate peace treaties with Germany, Austria and Japan, and to prepare—if necessary—to drive the Red army out of Germany by force.

Embittered by nearly two years of futile negotiating with the Russians, Byrnes advocated "better and more" atomic bombs as an answer to the Soviet refusal to accept the U. S. atomic energy plan.

He proposed a 10-step "course of action" for restoring "peace" which would start with immediate abolition of the "worthless" Big Four council of foreign ministers, which Byrnes created, and would end, if the Russians refused to go along, with World War III.

His proposals are made in his memoirs, "Speaking Frankly," published today by Harper Brothers.

Byrnes' conclusion — one he hopes is wrong—is that the Russians may have to be driven out of Germany.

Never before has a secretary of state told his story so soon after retirement. Byrnes quit only last January on grounds of ill health.

Byrnes believes the only way to keep Russia from seeking fulfillment of her objectives is to convince her that the United States and the other nations will use force, despite the United Nations veto, to stop her.

"I do not doubt that the Russians' ultimate goal is to dominate in one way or another, all of Europe," he wrote.

Would More Than Protest

Warning against a "do-nothing-except-protest" policy, he proposed:

"If . . . the Soviet Union is made to realize now that if it commits an act of aggression, we will appeal immediately to the security council of the United Nations; if we make it clear that a Soviet veto in the security council will bring a call upon the other United Nations to act collectively to support and enforce the principles of the charter—if these things are made clear, I do not believe the Soviets will violate the integrity . . . of any country.

"For many reasons the Soviets do not want war. They will, I believe, 'retire in a very decent manner.' But if the other powers do not 'hold firm' then, as Marx warned us of the Czarist Russians, 'conquest follows conquest and annexation follows annexation.'"

Byrnes said he would reverse his "patience and firmness" policy to read "firmness and patience"—with emphasis now on firmness.

Book's Revelations

The book contains many disclosures, including:

1. Stalin told the late President Roosevelt at Yalta he never would have signed the nonaggression pact with Hitler in 1939 if Britain and France had not snubbed Russia and appeased Hitler at Munich.

2. Hitler decided to make war on Russia a year after the pact was signed because (Byrnes believes) Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov "overplayed his hand" and committed a "major diplomatic blunder" by making additional immediate demands on Germany. Byrnes believes the Oct. 13, 1940, Hitler-Molotov conference was "the turning point of the war."

3. Byrnes last year threatened to quit immediately and turn the U. S. delegation at the Paris peace conference over to someone else unless President Truman gagged Henry A. Wallace, who while commerce secretary had publicly criticized Byrnes' foreign policy. At the time Byrnes officially denied he had any communication with the White House. He had, however, and in a subse-

American Diary

By Hal Boyle

MINNESOTA

MONOLOGUE in a smoking car:

"Whadja say your name was? Hal Boyle? Are you the fellow that goes around the country writing stories about people?

"You are, really? Have a cigar. No, go ahead. Take one. It's good—two for a quarter.

Hal Boyle

"What a small world it is. So you're Hal Boyle. You sure must lead an interesting life. Travel all the time don't you; that's something I never could do. Never could work one of those typewriters. Never had the education.

"But my life would make a real story. Better than most of the novels you read nowadays. Lotta trash, most of them.

Whatcha Say, Mr. Boyle

"Say I got an idea, Mr. Boyle. Why don't you help me write my life story? I'll bet we could sell it to the movies and make a million dollars. And don't worry—I'd take care of you. You'd get your share, okay. I'd see to that.

"We could hole up in a hotel room somewhere for a week, and I could just talk the story out to you. Then you could put it down on paper. That wouldn't be so hard, would it?

"What's the story? Well, I'll tell you. It's all complicated and mixed up—just like life really is. You see, I used to be a hop head—yep, that's right, a dope fiend. Now I'm just a plain drunk.

"But when I'm sober, Mr. Boyle, I'm as good a salesman as ever lived. You know why? Because I use psychology. I study each customer before I try to sell him. And another thing, I know my product perfecty. That's important. You gotta know your product.

"Oh, yes, you said you wanted to know about the story. Well, it is the story of a boy who goes over to France in the First World War and comes back and marries the girl he thinks he loves. But he finds out it is a terrible mistake. He is in and out of hospitals for years, and he finds out his wife isn't behaving right. So after thirty-five years he decides to call it quits, and they divorce.

"So after all these years the fellow has a chance to be happy. He meets another girl, gives up drinking and gets married again. But it doesn't work out either. He takes up drinking again and his second wife leaves him, and he gets drunk and climbs on a train and doesn't care where it takes him.

"That's the idea of the story, Mr. Boyle. Course there's lots of things I left out, such as how the fellow got on the hop habit. But I think the story shows what happens to a man when love fails him.

"I didn't know whether the story should have a sad or happy ending. I don't see how it could be happy. Perhaps it should end up with him going back to a hospital. By golly, that's a good idea! Tell you what, Mr. Boyle, if you'll help me write the story, I'll fix it up so as to really go into a hospital—that'll make the ending true. Course there won't really be anything wrong with me, and I'll leave right away, but it'll make the folks feel sorry about my whole life.

"Whatcha say, Mr. Boyle? What a movie it would make! Bet it would even make my first wife cry. And you won't have to worry about me. I'll take care of you."

Red Blood Cells Must Be Kept Up If You Want To Feel Alive

Thousands Now Regaining Old Time Pep, Vigor and Drive By Releasing Vibrant Energy To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell

Overwork, undue worry, and lack of certain foods often reduces the red-blood strength—and starved, weak, puny blood just hasn't the power to keep up your energy and drive.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Class Is Entertained By Mrs. O. H. Gearhiser

Mrs. O. H. Gearhiser entertained the Elizabeth Dairy class of the First Presbyterian church Monday night at her home at 377 Bellefontaine avenue, with Mrs. John Grice serving as assistant hostess. Miss Catherine Turner conducted devotions by reading an article entitled "On the Shelf? Never," and members responded to roll call by giving their "choice" verse from the Book of Proverbs.

Mrs. O. D. Anderson was named to serve on a nominating committee with Mrs. Roy Shipton, chairman, and Mrs. A. H. Exton, who were appointed previously. Food and clothing were brought by the members to pack a box to be sent to Rev. Esko J. Haapa in Helsinki, Finland, a Lutheran minister. This is the second box to be sent by the class to the minister.

For the program, Mrs. Arden Groll presented a paper, "The Transmission of the Old Testament," and Miss Jeanette Powers talked on the programs for the year after which a discussion was held. During the social hour, the guessing box award was won by Mrs. Shipton. Guests were Mrs. P. L. Felder and Miss Gertrude Burt.

"KIDNEY" MADE FROM SAUSAGE

Swede Uses Skin To Create Artificial Blood-Purifying Instrument.

By The Associated Press

CKHOLM, Oct. 15—Syn- American sausage skin is a Swedish scientist, Pro- Nils Alwall, of Lund, to an artificial kidney, which scribes in Acta Medica Scan- ca ere have been other artifi- kidneys, but this is prob- the simplest one.

tube is made of the sausage Each end of the tube is at- ed to a vein. Blood coming the body enters one end e tube and passes back into body through the other ring this detour outside the the tube conducts the blood gh a can filled with salts in on, a water-colored liquid. The blood does not leave the sausage tube during this passage, but some of the impurities get out into the canned solution. Heparin prevents the blood from clotting while in the sausage.

Salts Attract Blood

The salts have an attraction for the contents of the blood in the tube. The skin is slightly porous, but the openings are too small to permit the red blood corpuscles and most of the other parts of the bloodstream to penetrate.

Some of the poisons in the blood, being very small particles, pass through the sausage walls into the salt solution. The substances removed are nitrogens, uric acid and phenols and some other impurities that normally would be removed by the kidneys.

The salt solution in the can is kept in constant circulation and is changed from time to time as it fills with the impurities from the detoured blood.

In this process the artificial sausage does some of the filtering job that is performed by a normal, healthy kidney.

Condition Can Be Fatal

Professor Alwall's purpose is an emergency use of the outside sausage tube when the kidney is not functioning. He designed the artificial kidney especially for use in uremic poisoning. This condition, due to kidneys' stopping their work, can be fatal in a short time.

But the primary disease may be elsewhere than in the kidney. If the primary disease can be relieved quickly, such as in a couple of weeks, the patient might be saved because the kidneys would begin to function again.

In using the artificial kidney the blood from the veins has to be run through the sausage 20 to 25 times. This requires about 12 hours.

Professor Alwall reports that the artificial kidney has been used on human patients. Most of the work has been done on animals, and appeared to be beneficial to them. Assisting Professor Alwall are two Baltic refugee doctors, Adolf M. Steins from Riga and Lambit Norvitt from Dorpat.

MARK OFFICERS' NIGHT AT CALVARY REVIVAL

At the revival service in Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church Tuesday night roll call of officers of the church and Sunday school and of organizations of the church was taken to observe officers' night. Attendance was increased from the previous night, it was reported. Rev. Lewis H. Naumann of Canton preached on "Divine Reprover," based on verses of the sixteenth chapter of the book of John. Tonight will be Old Time Religion night, with families sitting together. Thursday night will be Ladies' night, and Friday, Sunday school night.

In his message Rev. Naumann declared, "Many people think of the Holy Spirit as a past event. Their emphasis is upon the fact He came. They do not realize the importance of the fact that He is here today. Many people hinder the program of the Kingdom of God because they refuse the Holy Spirit. Only the spirit can effectively convince men. You had better accept now the true way of being healed in your souls and make a full surrender to the Lord Jesus Christ."

"Satira" Believes She Will Win Her Freedom

By The Associated Press

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 15—Exotic dancer Patricia (Satira) Schmidt, near the end of her testimony under prosecution questioning, expressed confidence today that she would be acquitted of charges that she murdered her lover, John Lester Mee of Chicago.

"I have faith that I will be freed—if the language difficulty can be overcome," the 23-year-old Toledo, O., dancer told friends. "My only fear is that I cannot make Spanish-speaking judges understand."

When she finishes her testimony under prosecution questioning she will be interrogated by her defense counsel, Rene Castellanos, a New Orleans-schooled attorney. She probably will be on the witness stand most of this week.

In Plain Words

By James Marlow

By The Associated Press

BOSTON

THERE'S no rush among CIO union leaders to take the I'm-not-a-Communist oath under the new labor law.

Most of the CIO union officers are not Communists One of them, explaining his reason for not taking the oath, at least right away, told this writer:

James Marlow

"I'll take the oath any day saying I'm a good citizen But the I'm-not-a-Communist oath means I'd be swearing I'm not a bad citizen That's insulting."

While this was being said at the CIO convention here, at the AFL convention in San Francisco John L. Lewis, boss of the coal mines, was saying almost the same thing:

"It is not necessary for me to say I'm not a Communist. I was fighting communism in America before many people in this country knew what communism stood for."

That is not the only reason why Lewis or other union leaders are going to take their time about swearing the oath or not swearing at all.

Lewis is bitter against the new labor law, the Taft-Hartley act. So is the CIO as an organization. And AFL leaders have denounced it too.

They want the law wiped off the books and they don't want to do any more than they have to make it work.

Taking the oath would be one of the things that would help make it work. And it comes down to this:

The big, strong unions—like Lewis' coal miners and the CIO's Steelworkers—may be able to get by all right without doing anything to help the new law work

Weaker unions, whether they like it or not and in order to survive, may have to go along with the law

And for this reason under the law unions are given some protection against employers who want to hurt or wreck a union.

And, to get that protection, unions must do certain things under the law. One of them requires a union's officers to swear they're not Communists.

(By this provision in the law congress hoped to drive Communists out of control in labor unions. Since Communists, who are union officers, can't take the oat, their union gets no protection under the law)

STRAIN SEEN ON U.S. POWER

Industry Fears Limits of Capacity May Be Reached by Christmas.

By The Associated Press

The nation's power lines may be strained to the limit by Christmas. They are already taut under unprecedented, and in some sections unexpected, demands for electricity.

A nation-wide survey by The Associated Press shows that in some sections plans are being made already to:

1. Ask householders "voluntarily" to save electricity."

2. Urge industry "voluntarily to rearrange operation schedules" to space out demands on generating equipment. This might mean changes in working hours and conditions, even a return to three-shift system of wartime to use power during the hours of least demand.

3. Cut off "dump power" supplied some industries at lower rates with provision to curtain or cut off power when regular consumers' demands tax capacity.

4. Deny power to new industrial applicants until additional generating capacity can be installed.

See No Brownouts

The utility companies disagree with recent predictions in some quarters of a return to wartime "brownouts" on a wide scale, but they admit that in a number of sections "r'eserves are too low for comfort."

And they have their fingers crossed against any breakdowns in the pre-Christmas period when the nation normally has its peak load, due to long nights, blazing store and home lights, and overtime in plants filling last-minute shipment demands.

Avowed shortages already exist in Arizona, Florida and northern California. Dallas and Los Angeles have surplus power.

In between these extremes, most sections report generating capacity will be equal to demand—if there is no general breakdown of equipment, no prolonged drouth, no fuel shortages, no "terrific production" by industry.

In most sections, the survey shows, utilities plan to increase capacity. Slow progress so far can be traced to failure of equipment manufacturers to fill orders and to delays in construction programs, due to materials shortages.

By 1951 privately-owned utility companies expect to add 13,500,000 kilowatt generator capacity to the present 50,303,560 kilowatts. Other producers expect to add 3,000,000 kilowatts capacity.

Fear Coming Winter

But it's the coming winter that has power plant executives looking for rain clouds in the fall skies, studying coal and oil production figures, and poring over the ever-mounting demand curve in their own industry.

How did this low margin of reserves come about?

Normally the industry tries to keep 15 to 20 percent margin between capacity and peak load. E. Robert De Luccia, chief of the federal power commission's bureau of power, estimates the utilities now have only an eight per cent average reserve of power capacity, the nation over; at the peak of last winter's high demand for power it was 7 per cent. He thinks it may drop to a six per cent average this winter "even after some companies have cut down their power deliveries to industrial users."

The Edison Electric Institute reports that in September the industry as a whole was generating electricity at the rate of 300,000,000,000 kilowatt hours a year, exactly twice that of 1947, the highest prewar year, and compared with an average in each of the last four years of 275 billion.

This 100 per cent gain in production in 10 years was accomplished with only a 37 per cent increase in generating facilities. Last year the capacity of all plants was 50,303,660 kilowatts, compared with 35,620,011 in 1937.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Sinus Infection

To people who read headlines, penicillin may seem an old story, but to the exact and precise doctor, it is one which deepens in interest with each new extension of this wonder drug's usefulness.

When penicillin was first introduced, nobody thought it would have any effect when applied locally to the tissues. Since then, however, research has shown that penicillin can be taken into the body through the lungs and that when administered in this way as an aerosol it has a great power to heal infections.

By aerosol is meant something which can be breathed. To get penicillin into a breathable form, special apparatus is required to mix it with oxygen. When sprayed out as a fine mist, this mixture can travel along the whole respiratory tract and penetrate to the farthest and tiniest tubes of the lungs.

Drs. Rodolfo Godinez and Raul Infante of Cuba, who have used penicillin in this way, report excellent results in a large variety of respiratory infections.

The aerosol penicillin treatment is of value in infections of the respiratory tract such as the throat and lungs due to germs which are sensitive to penicillin. This treatment seems to be superior to the use of penicillin by injection because it is less painful and in addition the oxygen has some benefit in the lung infections. The oxygen also has a local, beneficial effect on the lining membranes of the affected tissues.

Drs. Godinez and Infante have employed the treatment in acute infections of the sinuses, which are air spaces connected with the nose. Three daily treatments were employed, after which treatment the patient was advised to gargle with some mild solution in order to prevent local irritation of the throat.

In forty cases of acute sinus infection, an average of twelve treatments were employed in chronic sinus infection, it was felt that if after twelve treatments no improvement occurs, the use of the aerosol penicillin should be stopped.

Acute infections of the throat, the larynx or voice-box, and the windpipe, also seem to respond satisfactorily to the aerosol penicillin. Chronic infections are not benefited to as great an extent as are acute infections.

However, both acute and chronic bronchitis or inflammation of the tubes in the lungs, were helped with the aerosol penicillin method of treatment. It was found that in the acute infections the temperature tended to become normal after the first few treatments, coughing became less severe, and the symptoms improved.

The treatment with aerosol penicillin is easily carried out and quickly brings improvement in respiratory infections.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

B. M.: What causes swelling of the feet and legs?

Answer: Swelling of the feet usually comes from heart disease, kidney disease, some trouble with the ligaments in the feet, or a disturbance of the circulation in the legs. Before treatment can be suggested, the cause of the trouble must be found.

We Leave "The Rock"

THIS week the American Flag was lowered on Corregidor for the last time and the flag of the Philippines Commonwealth took its place. This time it came down with all honors due it, as contrasted to May 6, 1942, when it was hauled down and burned by a small band of American soldiers who were preparing to surrender to the Japanese.

Even though it is now under Philippine rule, Corregidor will be remembered as a fort where the Flag was defended with valor and surrendered only to overwhelming odds. It will be remembered as the scene of a humiliating defeat, and the strong point where resurgent American airborne troops landed to rout the Japanese.

But this week's ceremony on the rock had a further significance. Living up to a promise made before the war—that the Filipinos someday would have their freedom, not a token freedom but freedom in fact.

Corregidor is a shrine to American military valor; it also is a symbol of our good faith in dealing with other peoples.

No Crusts

GETTING into the breast-beating, crumb-salvaging spirit of the government's grain-saving campaign, one is mindful of another similar campaign of recent memory.

During the war, the government decided to save pants cuffs. By dint of whopping it up, the salvage experts on the Potomac got the public so excited that tailors even whacked off the cuffs of pants entrusted to them for repair and alteration. All new pants were cuffless, despite the fact they had been manufactured with ample material for making cuffs if the purchaser wanted them.

No one, except the embarrassed merchants and tailors who disposed of them, knew what became of the cuffs that weren't there. It really didn't matter; it was one of many bits of nonsense perpetrated on the public in wartime to remind patriots "There was a war on."

So, in the spirit of reminding the public there is an emergency on and once more all patriots should trust Washington and ask no foolish questions, how about whacking the crusts off all loaves of bread? That will save a lot of Crusts.

And what would happen to the crusts? Why the same thing that happened to the cuffs—they'd be kicked around until they got lost. But it would be dandy mass psychology, if anyone's interested.

Hunger Fighters

IF THE idea of helping Europe is to fight the infection of dictatorship that feeds on human desperation, there are places to consider besides Europe.

The organized effort to persuade human beings to surrender their dignity and freedom for bogus promises of security under dictatorship isn't confined to the old world. Agitators are busy in this continent too—in this country.

They are taking advantage of inflation, which they hope may lead to a ruinous collapse, with mass unemployment, bread lines and the same circumstances of economic disaster that caused Americans to say in the early 30's that the government should take extreme measures to block the spread of Communism.

They are preaching their doctrine of violent overthrow and creation of class dictatorship to the dispossessed, the hungry, and the people whose great ambition is to destroy representative democracy. They are ferreting out the minorities with grudges to bear. If they are capable of doing historic damage in Europe, let no one forget their ultimate goal is the United States of America—the wealthiest nation on earth, the one nation that must be destroyed before the masters of the faceless masses ever could hope to establish world dictatorship.

The fight to keep the human race safe from the hyenas waiting to gobble it up if its existing economic systems fail can't be restricted to Europe, convenient though that might be for the Truman administration.

Line Forms at Right

NEWFOUNDLAND is a British crown colony, a status equivalent to that of a discontented stepchild. Newfoundlanders have been shopping round for better connections. The logical step would be for them to join Canada's tier of maritime provinces, but the Chicago Tribune's press service says in a dispatch from St. John's the colony capital: "It is frankly admitted that more than 80 per cent of the population would vote for union with the United States."

This is a new addition to the list of possible states. We also have Hawaii, Alaska and Puerto Rico. The line forms at the right, folks. Fill out the form in duplicate and if anything turns up you'll hear from us.

Before 1,000 B. C. King David accepted raisins for taxes.

Roger Fenton, the first war photographer, made his own wet plates in the field, usually with whites of eggs as fixatives.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Third International Seems Far from Dead.

ON MAY 22, 1943, it was announced from Moscow that the Third International, organized in 1919 to promote world revolution, had been abolished on May 15. The resolution of dissolution said that Communists "have never been supporters of organizational forms that have outlived themselves." Washington and London greeted this announcement with joy; Berlin called it a "gigantic bluff."

Communists signing the manifesto were:

Dimitrov, Bulgarian; Zhdanov, Russian, Kuusinen, Finnish, Manuilsky, former comintern secretary; Marty and Thorez, French; Gottwald, Czech; Pick and Koplenig, German; Ercoli, Italian; Kolarov and Floring; also, Ibarruri, Spanish; Rakosi, Hungarian; Bianco, Italian; Lechtinen, Finnish; Pauker, Romanian.

Let us look at some of these names:

Dimitrov is now head of the Communist puppet state of Bulgaria. Zhdanov represented Russia at the reorganization meeting of the Third International in Poland. Manuilsky represented the Ukraine at UN. Thorez heads the French Communist movement in association with Duclos. Gottwald is the Communist premier of Czechoslovakia. Ercoli is another name for Togliatti, who, like Thorez, emerged from Moscow after the war, to take control of Italy. Rakosi and Pauker have turned their respective countries into Russian puppets.

Action Provides Proof

The proof that the dissolution of the Third International was a "gigantic bluff" lies in the fact that all the officers of that body, with the exception of Earl Browder in the United States, took up their respective stations as soon as the war was over and have since served the ideals, principles and policies of the Third International in the most disciplined and coordinated manner. Yet, it was possible for Cordell Hull, secretary of state, to say, at the time, that its dissolution was certain to "promote a greater degree of trust among the United Nations."

I wrote on May 26, 1943:

"But there is no particular reason for believing that the comintern is necessarily dead. When Karl Marx found that the First International was a nuisance, he transferred its headquarters from London to New York, taking it outside the course of European Socialist activity and thus killing it. But the Second International came to life. And a Third in time. And Trotsky tried from Mexico to organize a fourth. When the time comes that like-minded men need an instrument for common action for a common purpose, they create an instrument for its achievement. And when that instrument no longer serves, they cast it aside—and forge another."

Stalin Said It

It is interesting, in view of what has occurred in Europe during the last two years, to quote this statement of Stalin:

"We have not nor can we have such war aims as the imposition of our will and our regime on the Slavic and other enslaved peoples of Europe who are waiting for our help. Our aim is to help these peoples in their struggle for liberation from Hitler's tyranny, and then to accord them the possibility of arranging their lives on their own land as they think fit, with absolute freedom. No interference of any kind with the domestic affairs of other nations!"

Earl Browder, witnessing concerning the dissolution of the Third International, wrote as recently as Sept. 15, 1946:

"The motives Premier Stalin gave for approving the dissolution of the comintern are still valid. There will be no new Communist international in the predictable future. This judgment was conveyed to me as today's Soviet view when I visited Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Soviet foreign minister, last May. The Communist international belongs to past history."

Comintern in Operation

A correspondent of "Plain Talk," the leading American anti-Communist magazine, stated last November that the comintern was then functioning. He named Jacques Duclos, Walter Ulbricht and Dimitri Z. Manuilsky as the chiefs. He stated that Duclos had issued instructions on April 19, 1946, which he, the correspondent, saw in Berlin. (His name is not given for obvious reasons.)

In a word, the comintern was not revived last week; it never went out of business. The American public men and writers and radio commentators who joyfully announced its demise were at best in error, at worst, untruthful. At a party I attended a few days after the 1943 announcement, some American foreign correspondents recently from Moscow denied that there had ever been a comintern! That is how Americans have been hoaxed!

To Revise the Unwritten Law?

A Chicagoan has been sentenced to 20 years in prison for shooting a man who insisted on playing the same selection over and over again on the juke box.

Hadn't that jury ever heard of justifiable homicide?

Imagine a 20-year sentence for eliminating such a public menace. I'd have thought if he got anything, it would have been a Congressional Medal of Honor.

Incidentally, one can but wonder what Chicago does with its real criminals if a 20-year sentence is meted out for a misdemeanor.

Yes, sir, if one citizen can't put another out of his misery after he slips the fifth nickel in the slot for "Feudin', Fussin' and a Fightin'", then it is indeed time we rewrote the unwritten law.

A man has a right to shoot to protect his home . . . Why not his sanity?

Is Speculation Useful?

By Raymond Moley

PRESIDENT Truman's denunciation of speculation in grain on the board of trade had a familiar sound. From the day of Bryan's cross-of-gold speech, the "gambler" in grain has been a favorite subject of American political discourse. Earlier than that, in the 70's, a Prussian minister of trade called the commodity exchanges "trees of poison." Publicly, the speculator seems to have no friends. The farmer, the housewife, the tailor and candlestick-maker hate him. But he goes on and on over the years.

He must have a real function, or all this opposition would have destroyed him. His explanation of his function is a simple lesson in economics. Here it is, as he states it.

Many of Them

Everyone who buys and sells in a competitive market is a speculator. When buying for resale in any form, a businessman hopes to take in more than he has paid out. In selling, he hopes to replace the commodity for less than he has received. In business enterprises, it is essential to buy raw materials today for finished goods to be sold in the future. Sometimes that future is a long way off, as in the case of the speculator's fellow-sufferer, the distiller. It's a long, long way from John Barleycorn to the bar!

So it is with the textile manufacturer, who sells to the Army, Navy or to foreign governments.

The risk to a manufacturer would be intolerable if, in addition to all other chances he must take, he had to base his calculations on the future price of a commodity, the physical possession of which he must be assured at some future date.

Buying Procedure

Hence, the businessman buys a contract today for future delivery. He then has a basis for a firm calculation. He buys from a middleman, a speculator, who deals, in reality, in the name of or the "idea" of a commodity.

If the price is up when delivery is required, the speculator loses. If it is down, he wins. But in the interim, the "idea" of the commodity changes hands many times. The speculative risk is distributed. A number of such middlemen make a living—at a cost to the entire economic picture—which is relatively small.

The businessman has no concern about the vicissitudes of the speculator. He can swing a much larger volume of business when risk is reduced. In reality, he produces more. He produces real wealth in a volume which is demonstrably much greater than the earnings of the speculators. It is not too inaccurate to say that speculation is a species of insurance, through which many businesses are protected from undue risk. An analogy might be drawn between the process just described and such operations as Lloyd's of London.

Acts as Stimulant

It is admitted that speculation exaggerates the natural movements of the markets. This is especially so when margins are very low. But to prohibit this form of speculation is only a temporary expedient. To raise the margin requirements, as in the present instance, is only a minor check, because money is so plentiful. The effect on the cost of living of President Truman's measure of raising margin requirements is not yet apparent. Wheat was higher after five days of the new order of things.

Time will tell, of course, but it may well be that President Truman's blast at "gambling" will be filed away with Bryan's speeches and the Prussian Minister's "trees of poison."

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

The CIO convention in Boston and the AFL convention in San Francisco sent their best wishes to each other and their worst to Taft and Hartley.

Meanwhile "I Like Ike" campaign buttons have begun to appear. . . . I hear he will demand a fair trial.

The road of vanquished and victor is equally difficult. Nothing at the end but the gallows in Nuernberg or the hot seat in Washington.

But associates of Dewey say a Taft-Stassen combine cannot stop him. . . . They're even certain he can be started again.

Since Stassen was seen speaking civilly to Taft the odds on his nomination have shifted. . . . If he ever gets talking to Hoover he's through.

But I hear Hoover wired Taft, "When you think you're being abused come over and look at my scrapbook."

Constant Crises Overdone

By Mark Sullivan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 — In Washington last week the Indian Ambassador, M. Asaf Ali, called a press conference. His purpose was a plea to America, and the plea was for wheat. India, the Ambassador said, needs a larger share of the world's wheat surplus than has been proposed, and, unless the wheat is provided faces famine, starvation of millions.

The news of that lies in the lack of news that attended it in the press reports. In normal times, famine in India would be arresting news, it would stir popular emotion, incite steps for the outpouring of relief, by the government and the people. The lack of much notice now is not due merely to the quantity of appeals from many countries. It is due in part to the quantity of another thing—the almost daily emergency of events and announcements each of which in normal times would be recognized as momentous, but the sum of which has caused a kind of national induration. There is a limit to the human capacity to endure tension, at least to respond to new shocks.

But if our people are indurated, our goevrnment officials cannot permit themselves to be. Each of many developments calls for decision, on the highest level of national policy. And the urgency of the decisions is suggested by an epigram which says "the decision must be made yesterday."

Bullitt Warning of China

Within a few days of the announcement about need of wheat for India came a statement about China by Mr. William C. Bullitt, former Ambassador to Russia and France. He gave out, in the current "Life," a warning about the very existence of the United States as a nation:

"Soviet imperialism . . . using the Chinese Communists as instruments of Soviet power politics, is trying to reduce China to the status of a satellite of the Soviet Union. In our self-defense, therefore, we must act to prevent Soviet domination of China and the eventual mobilization of China's man power for war against us. . . If China falls into the hands of Stalin all Asia, including Japan, sooner or later will fall into his hands. The man power and resources of Asia will be mobilized against us. The independence of the United States will not live a generation longer than the independence of China."

Some of the policies our government and people are called upon to consider and some of the decisions they are called upon to make, are not only momentous each in itself. They are of that sequent nature in which one decision creates a new problem calling for another decision. They have an interrelation, and also an urgency like a timetable.

Arab Protest Noted

Last week, in the United Nations, we decided to support the plan for partition of Palestine. That decision brought from one of the leaders of the Jewish agency for Palestine, Dr. A. Silver, a statement that it was "American statesmanship at its best and noblest." But the possibility of the partition of Palestine brought ominous protest from Arab leaders. They have indicated that we might lose their friendship by supporting the partition of Palestine.

This attitude of Arab leaders toward our decision about Palestine creates new problems. Last week Secretary of Defense Forrestal said that the development of oil reserves in one of the Arab countries, Saudi Arabia, is "essential" to us. In another area of the Middle-East, Iran, we have been gravely involved to see that the Russians did not take that country over for its oil. A state Department official, Dr. Charles B. Rayner, has said "I cannot stress the importance o fthis (Middle-East) part of the world too strongly." He added that the oil reserves of the Middle-East are greatly in excess of our own, which we have depleted during the war.

These problems, and the decisions they entail, all to the front one way or another within a few days, have all to do with Asia, and are by no means the sum of the problems that confront us in that continent. Added to these Asiatic ones are the problems associated with Europe, which alone strain our capacity to grasp them and strain human capacity to respond.

Ohio's Birthday

Ohio already is planning its sesquicentennial commemoration, which will begin March 1, 1953, and continue through the Summer, concluding with a grand finale in early Autumn. There will be no single sesquicentennial exposition, but it is proposed that each Ohio community prepare pageants, exhibits, fairs, parades and literary and musical exents of a commemorative nature.

The sesquicentennial will commemorate the founding of Ohio in 1803, when it became the 17th state. Edward Tiffin was elected first governor and Chillicothe became the first capital. The present capital, Columbus, was established in 1816.

Through pageantry and community effort it is believed possible to relive the early history of Ohio, tracing in chronological order the establishment of early communities such as Marietta, Belpre, Gallipolis, Cincinnati and others along the Ohio River.

Retracing of the military routes of the Indian wars of 1790 to 1794 as traversed by Generals Harmer, St. Clair and Anthony Wayne can be followed in pageantry. Such an area takes in the entire western half of the state from Toledo to Cincinnati and would include commemoration of the signing of the Treaty of Greene Ville.

Governors and other officials of state governments in all states affected by the Treaty of Greene Ville and the Northwest Territory will be afforded means of participation.

The Dinner Guests

("It was again emphasized that in the food crisis the problem of peace has entere American home and taken a chair at the f table"—News item).

We're having guests for dinner—
The kind for whom we're keen:
The ones who don't accept it
As just an old routine;
No flippant, overstuffed folks—
No gay and fat ones there . . .
Just gaunt and famished children
In whose eyes is a prayer!

II.

We're having guests for dinner—
The small talk won't run high—
There won't be merry laughter—
They've seen too many die!
A mother, cheekbones showing,
And ones too weak to smile . . .
They'll dine there in the shadows
And stay with us awhile.

III.

We're having guests for dinner—
No sleek bejewelled ones;
The laughter will not ripple,
There won't be clever puns;
They'll be a little solemn,
But somehow we'll feel fine
Because of something wondrous
That in each face will shine.

IV.

We'll have 'em stay for breakfast—
No yawns and no one bored—
No "Did you sleep well?" bromides-
No quips to be deplored;
But such a lovely breakfast,
With guests consisting of
Three very special people
Called Faith and Hope and Love!

V.

We'll want 'em, too, for luncheon—
(They sort of grow on you)—
They 're really not much bother
And are so gentle, too:
They make a home seem warmer,
A glow quite new comes through—
With words "Do unto others
As you'd wish done to you"!

VI.

We'll let 'em stay at our house,
It won't mean any fuss,
For by their very presence
They seem a part of us!
The home has found new blessings—
A warmth so rich and deep . . .
Back comes the ancient comfort
Of hearing "Feed My Sheep!"

The White House announced a "Perfe Salad" made as follows: "I tablespoon gran ed geletin, I and 1/4 cups water, 1/4 cup s 1/4 cup vinegar, 2 spoons lemon juice, 1 teas salt.

How Things Look From Here

Everything depends on where you are you look at it. From where a cat is, the w looks the same now as it did a year ago. T may be a few less mice for us cats to terr and a few more dogs to terrorize us, that's only difference. As for people, we cats n try to figure out what they are up to. watch their legs and when they start to run retire to a safe place and let 'em run. Love's Perilous Path

By Adele Garrison

n Underwood, who, with her husband, Harry, not only has been the closest friend of Dicky and myself, all the years of our marriage—indeed their friendship with Dicky antedated that mile-stone—but also has been a true and tried comrade in the government service of my father, is not a woman to exaggerate anything. When she said her errand was a "hush-hush" one, I drew her into the door quickly and closed it.

"Katrina," she greeted my companion. "The Chief said I'd probably find you here. Where's the Dicky-bird by the way? He must be in on this."

"He went up to get Faith, who has been dining at the Philip Veritzens," I explained. "You know I told you over the telephone about Mary."

"Yes, I was so glad to hear that she was getting better," she said. But there was something in her tone that told me she was subordinating everything else to her "hush-hush" errand, and she immediately went on: "Look here! Can you flag Faith and have them keep her up there on some pretext while the Dicky-bird flits down here?"

"Of course," I said, starting toward the telephone. But she caught my arm restrainingly as I passed her.

"Under no circumstances, give them any hint that I'm here," she warned, and I nodded my understanding.

In Close Conference

ina answered the telephone, and I guessed that Dicky was in close conference with the elder Veritzen.

"ina," I said, putting urgency into my voice. "I have a message for Dicky. Will you ask him to come to the telephone, please?"

"Of course," she replied, and while I waited, neither Lillian nor Katharine disturbed the silence with a word, something characteristic of both of them in times of stress.

"Dicky," I said, when he had come to the telephone, "I cannot tell you why I am asking this of you. Please tell the Veritzens that I have received an urgent summons for you, and ask them to keep Faith up there with them a little longer. Come down immediately."

"Check!" he answered, with the ready acceptance of an emergency which is always his. He can be provokingly voluble and teasing on ordinary occasions, but he is always there one hundred per cent in any crisis.

Clicked Simultaneously

He did not bother to say "Good-bye," nor did I, and our receivers clicked simultaneously.

When I turned back to the other women, Lilian's hand raised in salute.

"I knew you wouldn't waste any motions," she said. "And while I yield to nobody in the world in love and admiration for your youngest, her presence tonight is one of the things I 'wants the leatest of.' Where's Mary?"

"Sound asleep in the next room," Katharine told her. "She's so tired she's bound to sleep soundly, but I didn't take any chances on her waking up for she needs her rest badly. So I slipped a sedative into a tiny glass of hot milk. She's safe until morning, I guarantee that."

"Good!" Lillian commented. "Anybody else running loose in the apartment?"

"Not a soul," I told her. "Every door is locked, and even the windows are barred."

"Yes, I know. Your father told me," she said, while I reflected that evidently she had been in close communication with my father, "The Chief," since we had seen him.

And then we all fell silent again, until Dicky's knock sounded on the door.

"Ah, there, Dicky!" Lillian said, when he had come through the door. "Surprise, surprise!"

"Lil! By all that's holy!" he explained, seizing both hands in his and kissing her soundly. "But where's old Harry?"

"At home, guarding the silver," she returned, and something in her tone made him look sharply at her.

"What's up?" he demanded.

Quite a Yarn

"Sit down, and I'll tell you," she said. "It's quite a yarn, and I hope I've got it straight! 'The Chief' will have my head on a platter if I muddle it."

"Of course that's a chance we'll have to take," Dicky remarked, grinning at her. But there was no answering smile on her face, and he suddenly sobered.

"I'll be good," he promised. "No more wise cracks. This looks like serious business."

"It is," Lillian said, and then she leaned forward in her chair and looked at each of us in turn.

"The Chief said," she began "that all three of you are familiar with the South American expedition, with Jack pretending to be a career diplomat and with a plastic surgeon doubling as a medical officer."

"Yes, we are," I said, and Katharine put a tense question.

"Forgive me," she said, "but I must ask one thing before you go on. Has anything happened to Jack?"

BYRNES

quent teletype conversation with the President which resulted in Wallace's dismissal. Byrnes said: "You and I spent 15 months building a bipartisan policy . . . Wallace destroyed it in a day."

4. Byrnes never quarreled or disagreed with the president on foreign policy. But he was bitterly opposed by Adm. William D. Leahy, the president's chief of staff. He hints that Leahy and the "White House gang" inspired stories of a Byrnes-Truman rift and that this group's activities were a factor in his resignation.

5. Great Britain never hinted to Byrnes that it would have to abandon Greece—a decision that led only six weeks after Byrnes' resignation to the "Truman doctrine." He accuses both the United States and Britain of acting "nervously" in that crisis. He deplores any implication that the United States will not oppose efforts of Communists in any country to gain government control.

Russian-U. S. Relations Cool

6. Soviet-American relations had deteriorated seriously before Franklin D. Roosevelt died. Roosevelt told Byrnes in March, 1945—one month after Yalta—that he had "grave misgivings about the future" of Soviet-American relations.

7. At Stalin's suggestion, Byrnes wrote a formal letter "requesting" the Soviet Union to enter the war against Japan. He defends the Yalta secret agreements on the far east, disclosing that Mr. Roosevelt's military advisors urged him to pay any price for Russian participation in the war against Japan.

8. Stalin showed no interest in the atomic bomb when President Truman told him about it at Potsdam. Leahy thought the atomic project would be a dud and remained skeptical until the first bomb was detonated.

9. Churchill—not Roosevelt—is to blame for the Soviet Union's three votes—the USSR, Soviet Ukraine and Soviet White Russia—in the United Nations fearing loss of a seat for India, Churchill supported Stalin's request.

Repeatedly Byrnes emphasized that he does not believe the Soviet Union wants war. But Soviet leaders, he said, "Must learn what Hitler learned—that the world is not going to permit one nation to veto peace on earth."

Program Recommended

His 10-point "course of action:"

1. Abolish the council of foreign ministers.

2. The U. S. should ask the Big Five, including the USSR, to agree to convening a full dress peace conference of all countries on Germany "early in 1948."

3. If Russia refuses, go ahead with the other big powers as sponsors.

4. Each sponsoring power should prepare a draft treaty with as many points of agreement as possible.

5. If Russia not only refuses to sponsor the conference but also refuses to attend, the other nations should go ahead.

6. The treaty agreed upon by the conference should be signed by the government or the governments of the western German zones.

7. If Russia still refuses to participate, she should again be invited to sign the treaty drafted by the other nations under threats to deprive her of any of the treaty's benefits—reparations, etc.—if she doesn't.

8. If Russia refuses to sign the treaty, no other action will be necessary if Russia withdraws her troops from eastern Germany and allows that area to come under the treaty—an unlikely possibility.

9. If Russia refused to withdraw her troops, the other nations should appeal to the United Nations security council to order her to get out.

10. If Russia vetoes the security council order, the United States and as many other countries as will join her, must drive the Russians out by force.

Byrnes contended that such a course will not be necessary if the Russians will be reasonable.

"There is and always has been room in this world for more than one ideology and more than one way of life," he said. "There is room for the Soviet way of life and the American way of life . . . There is too much talk of war and too little of peace."

NO MEAT

ond "poultryless Thursday" tomorrow, having swung into the national program a week ago. No eggs or poultry will be served.

Substitutes for Meat

At the Midway customers yesterday saw no meat dishes on the menu as did those at Turoff's and other downtown restaurants. A variety of substitutes including fish and other sea food, chicken and cheese dishes spliced out the menus.

Compliance also on "poultryless Thursday" seems to be forthcoming as most restaurants plan to delete fowl and egg items from the menu lists. The man who likes to go to work with a heavy breakfast under his belt including his eggs the way he likes them will not be forgotten however.

Breakfast special on Thursday will contain bacon and or sausage and potatoes for the big eaters. Meat will be served on lunch and dinner menus as usual.

7 Missing in Plane Lost in Denver Storm

By The Associated Press

DENVER, Oct. 15—The Army began an organized search early today for a transport plane lost in a blinding storm over rugged front range mountains with seven men reported aboard.

Army, National Guard and Civil Air Patrol planes were slated to join in a daylight aerial hunt for the Army craft, bound to Lowry field, Denver, from Hill field, Utah.

Capt. William W. Coleman, Lowry public information officer, said hope virtually had been abandoned that the C-47 had been able to make a safe emergency landing in the storm that lashed the plains with rain and covered high mountain areas with snow.

Rubber Plant Strike At Barberton Ends

By The Associated Press

BARBERTON, O., Oct. 15—A three-day strike ended, the Seiberling Rubber Co. plant here expected to have the last of 1,700 idle employes back at work tomorrow morning and tire production restored to full scale.

An end to the strike came last night when employes of the bank room and small truck and passenger departments returned to work on the 6 p. m. shift, agreeing to negotiate a pay rate dispute.

Employes in the two departments started the strike as a sitdown protest Oct. 2 and other workers joined the stoppage until all tire production came to a halt last weekend. Only about 300 workers in the plant's tube room and rubber mat departments continued operations.

The wage dispute resulted from a company notice that 90 per cent rates would be paid for non-productive time where piecework rates could not apply because of stock or machine difficulties. The strikers wanted 100 per cent pay rates.

French Railroad Strike Averted by Government

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 15—The French government averted a nationwide railroad strike today and decided to stand firm in refusal to negotiate with striking subway and bus workers until they returned to their jobs.

Newspapers reflecting the Socialist and MRP party viewpoints charged the Communists were stirring the widespread labor unrest in the interests of international as well as French politics. Municipal elections will be held Sunday.

Railroad union leaders and the ministry of transport agreed on negotiations for pay raises and other demands directly with the nationalized railroad system.

UNION FILES CHARGE IN GALION DISPUTE

NLRB Takes Affidavits in Complaints by UAW-CIO.

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct. 15—Contradictory reports on employment figures, and the filing of charges against company representatives by members of the United Auto Workers (CIO), Local 951, with Field Examiner John W. Irving of the National Labor Relations Board, were new developments today in the labor-management dispute of the North Electric Manufacturing Co.

Union and company officials continued to differ on reports of the number responding on the second day of the back to work movement.

Edward J. Duck, international representative of the UAW-CIO, said pickets at the gates this morning counted 202 workers of all classifications entering the plant. Alan Ryon, personnel manager, said 275 were at work today, an increase of 25 over yesterday's figure. Of the 25 additional reporting today, 23 are production workers, Ryon said.

Statements Taken

Duck announced today that the field examiner of the NLRB had been in Galion to interview the union members, bringing the charges and also to take affidavits. He said that Mary Ann Berger, and two witnesses, Frances Rush and Ruth Baker, have named specifically Lloyd Bender, vice president in charge of production, in charges against the company. Miss Berger claims in her charge against the company that Bender sent Arthur Sherer into a union meeting for the sole purpose of reporting back to him the whole proceedings of the meeting. Bender denied this under oath at the company's hearing the Morrow county court hearing at Mt. Gilead.

A second charge was filed by three employes of the Mt. Gilead plant, Beverly Billeter, Frances Benson and Martha Lloyd, who name specifically Mr. Bender, and Roy Rhodebeck, manager of the Mt. Gilead plant. They claim that the two men named had threatened the employes with closing of the factory if they joined the union, and also that all employes signing union cards would be fired.

The charges are being filed as individuals and not by the UAW-CIO, Duck said.

More Workers Called

R. K. McBerty, vice president of the company, said that letters were being mailed today calling back all employes who have signed petitions wanting to return. He said that most of those who reported for work, Tuesday, were volunteers, but that the company is now calling in the petition signers for work.

Meanwhile, Duck is announcing a meeting for union members only Friday at 7 p. m. in the Maccabee hall. He reaffirmed that the company "has not got and will not get our 400 men and women back to work until there is a signed contract with the union." He said "We do not want employes to leave their jobs they have secured elsewhere until this strike is settled."

Bonus Pay To Average $350 if Ohio O.K.'s Plan

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 15—Bonus payments to Ohio World War II veterans will average $350 if a proposed constitutional amendment providing them is voted Nov. 4, an American Legion official said today.

"The estimate is based on official war and navy department figures showing the average total length of service and average time served overseas or on shipboard by soldiers, sailors and Marines," said Don W. Schoeppe of Warren, head of the Legion's bonus committee.

Completion of Jury In Texas Trial Seen

By The Associated Press

LA GRANGE, Tex., Oct. 15—Completion of a jury was expected today for the trial of Dr. Lloyd I. Ross, 42-year-old physician and former Ohioan charged with murder in the roadside slaying of four persons who once were his friends.

Judge J. R. Fuchs yesterday ordered Sheriff T. J. Flournoy to summon 50 more men after the original venire of 104 Fayette county residents yielded only nine qualified jurors.

If the three remaining men are accepted today the case will probably reach the jury stage shortly afterwards.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Wolves Cry "Point a Minute"

Michigan Fans Revive Cry of "Hurry-Up" Yost's Day as Team Crushes Foes.

By The United Press

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 15—The "point-a-minute" football cry has been revived in this University of Michigan stronghold for the first time since the turn-of-the-century days of the late Fielding Harris (Hurry-Up) Yost.

The reason was not hard to find. On successive Saturdays Michigan's mighty Wolverines smothered Michigan State, 55-0, Stanford, 49-13, and Pittsburgh, 69-0.

Totaling up, Michigan scored a total of 173 points in 180 minutes of play, just shy of the point-a-minute clip.

Fans and sports writing fraternity began talking about "all-time greats" and "dream team."

Chappuis Gives Show

In the big Michigan stadium they saw the Wolverines, sparked largely by ace halfback Bob Chappuis, put on a brilliant show of speed, deception, precision and sheer power reaching all the way down to the fourth and fifth teams.

Astute Coach Fritz Crisler seemed helpless to stop the chain-reaction touchdown sprees of his powerhouse. In all three games he played his regulars only sparingly but still the scores piled up.

The point-a-minute cry harked back to the days of Yost, another offensive-minded coach who came to Michigan in 1901 and gave the school its golden gridiron days. The scoring record of his early teams was almost unbelievable in those days and still is.

From 1901 to 1905 Yost-coached teams piled up this record:

Year	W.	L.	T.	Mich. Pts.	Op. Pts.
1901	11	0	0	555	0
1902	11	0	0	644	12
1903	11	0	1	565	6
1904	10	0	0	567	22
1905	12	1	0	495	2

After that Yost's coaching rivals began to exploit offense and caught up with him and the point-a-minute label passed from public fancy.

One Big Difference

The oldtimers could see one big difference between the old and the new Michigan teams. Yost had only a handful of players at his disposal while Crisler has been using more than 40 men a game, switching teams every time the ball changed hands.

Yost climaxed his 1901 season by taking 14 men to battle Stanford in the first Tournament of Roses game of Jan. 1, 1902. The Wolverines won, 49 to 0, but the three subs failed to see action. After the game they turned hoses on each other and rolled in the dirt so their uniforms would be dirty.

Crisler ran his first three foes ragged with a parade of substitutes varying very little in skill, and a new system that uses different teams for offense and defense.

One observer said it was more like a "Cecil B. DeMille production" than football.

FROSH CAST AS IOWA IN BUCKEYE PRACTICE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 15—Ohio State University's Buckeyes hammered the Freshman eleven yesterday as Coach Wes Fesler intensified practices preparing for Iowa's invasion Saturday.

With the frosh in Iowa's role, Fesler sent the Bucks through a long, hard scrimmage that wound up with a "live" tackling practice, hardest mid-week session of the season.

Freshman tackles caught the heaviest battering as End Coach Esco Sarkkinen worked to erase flanker faults noted in the OSU-Southern California game last week.

The tackling drill was Fesler's answer to his own criticisms that faulty tackling was partly responsible for the 32-0 loss.

Ollie Cline missed much of yesterday's practice because of a knee injury received against Southern California.

Defensively, the Bucks were primed to stop Al Di Marco, Iowa's aerial sharpshooter, and Emlen Tunnell, whose ball carrying has piled up much Iowa yardage.

The heavy contact work caused no new injuries. Fesler said, however, that halfback Rod Swinehart is not in top condition and that Bob Brugge, the "Parma Express," may again miss action Saturday. Brugge has been sidelined since pre-season practice with a pulled thigh muscle.

Chuck Renner of Akron was defensive fullback yesterday, and Cline studied the defensive quarterback assignments.

Iowa's Di Marco Leads Air Wizards of Big 9

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 15—Alfonso DiMarco, nimble 160-pound Iowa quarterback, has passed Illinois' Perry Moss and Purdue's Bob De Moss as the Big Nine's best aerial wizard.

DiMarco has a season mark in conference competition of 13 completions in 22 tries for 240 yards.

Indiana's George Taliaferro, leads the "total offense" list by gaining 234 yards in 19 running and passing plays in two games. Highest rushing average of 12.1 yards is held by Minnesota's Bill Bye.

Pete Perini, of Ohio State, averaged 43.2 yards punting, second only to Dike Eddleman, Illinois, who leads with 46.3 yards a try.

Veeck Works Overtime On l'Affaire Boudreau

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15—A conservatively estimated 4,000 letters have poured into the Cleveland Indians front office in the last 10 days on l'Affaire Boudreau, and energetic Bill Veeck will need his famous vitality to fulfill his self-appointed task of answering them.

Veeck already is sorting the cards and letters into various classifications and underlining pertinent passages with red pencil.

"I think that anyone who takes the time to write us a letter certainly has the interest of the ball club in mind and should get an answer," the Tribe president observed. And some of his answers run upwards of 250 words.

2 Area 11's Stay Unbeaten

Upper Sandusky, Bucyrus Atop Peak; Marysville, Kenton Tumble.

The field of undefeated football teams in this area narrowed down to two after Marysville and Kenton were knocked out of the exalted ranks over the weekend. Upper Sandusky and Bucyrus are still unbeaten as high school football enters the sixth week of play next Friday.

The undefeated, untied Upper Sandusky Rams travel to Galion Friday and figure the game a breather. The Rams last Friday came from behind for the fourth time this year to win over Willard, 12-6, and stays on top of the Northern Ohio league race with four league victories. Ramsmen have won over Montpelier, Bellevue, Norwalk, Crestline and Willard.

Galion Tiger's 26-0 setback at the hands of Bucyrus last week added another loss to their string of three. They have a win over Tiffin Calvert.

Bucyrus at Crestline

Bucyrus Redmen, undefeated but once tied, are in second place in the Northern Ohio league. They go to Crestline Friday for a try at another league victory. Scalps from Tiffin Columbian, Willard, Shelby and Galion hang in the Redmen belt. They buried the hatchet with Norwalk after both teams failed to get anywhere in their seconod game.

Crestline has a three-win, two-loss record. Mt. Gilead, Galion and Tiffin Calvert have taken the count from the Crestline gridders. Bellevue and Upper Sandusky stopped them.

The Kenton Wildcats, victims of Wapakoneta, 19-12, last week, will try to regain their stride against Ada. Kenton found Bluffton, St. Marys, Van Wert, and Forest easy pray but the big Wapak gun blew them out of the undefeated class. They'll meet Ada at home.

Marysville, edged 19-14 by Marion St. Mary in an exciting Homecoming game last week, will go to London. Marysville has a record of two wins, two ties, and a loss.

Richwood at Carey

Richwood will go to Carey for a Mid-State league game. Richwood, Marysville, and Carey are involved in a three-way tie for second place in the league with a split of one win, one loss in the league. Marion St. Mary leads with two wins, and Mt. Gilead is in the cellar with a pair of losses. Carey came back big last week after a two-game slump and bowled over North Baltimore, 64-6. The St. Mary Irish dashed Carey hopes for a second undefeated season with an 18-7 win over the Blue Devils, and Ada followed suit the next week.

Richwood season record stands at three wins, one tie, and one loss. They dumped Mt. Gilead, 19-6, last week.

The Mt. Gilead Indians, with two wins and three losses, will try to even up the record Friday when they entertain Bellville. The Indians scalped Danville and Sunbury, but lost their own pate to Crestline, Carey and Richwood.

The Cardington Pirates will try to win their first in three starts when they entertain Dublin. Cardington entered football this fall for the first time since 1910. They fell to Centerburg in their opener, and lost to Sunbury last week, 26-0. Dublin is also new to football this season. Dublin lost to Mt. Sterling and Reynoldsburg, but topped Liberty Union.

The Ashley Aces will entertain Sunbury.

Tribe Gives Harder New Coaching Job

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15—Twenty years faithful service to the Cleveland Indians today brought pitcher Melvin Leroy Harder the reward of a job unique in baseball—coach-at-large of all pitchers in the Tribe and its 19 farm clubs.

The tall righthander, who is 38 years old today, will work with new members of the Indians mound staff some of the time when the Tribe is at home, but his chief concern will be developing the most promising of some 170 youngsters hurling under Indian contracts in minor leagues throughout the country.

Harder will be free to go when and where he chooses, Bill Veeck, Indians president, said last night in announcing the appointment.

"If there's a kid on the Bakersfield club who looks as if he needs some personal attention, Mel can hop out to California and spend a day, or a week or a month with him," Veeck explained. "I'll depend absolutely on his judgment. He knows more about pitching than I do."

Salary for Harder's new job, Veeck said, will equal this year, believed about $14,000.

The prospect of being a pitching professor delighted Harder who said he thought "there'll be as much kick in helping to develop a boy who'll win 20 games for the Indians as in winning 20 myself."

All-Time Record Set For Baseball "Gate"

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 15—For the second consecutive season, American league teams played before more than nine million fans, helping to set a new all-time high for major league baseball attendance.

The official 1947 attendance for the A.L. of 9,486,069 was a decrease of 135,113 from the 1946 total. The drop was mainly caused by poor weather at the start of the season.

The National league drew an unofficial count of 10,390,289—boosting the overall total to a new high of 19,876,358. The paid total last year was $18,534,444.

Adamle Replaces Motley As Brown's Top Fullback

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15—Coach Paul Brown today installed Tony Adamle as the No. 1 fullback of the Cleveland Browns as the club resumed workouts for Sunday's battle here with the Chicago Rockets.

Adamle, Ohio State center last year and a former Cleveland All-Ohio high school fullback, takes the starting assignment away from Marion Motley.

"I haven't given up on Motley," Brown said. "It's just that he has made a few mistakes lately that hurt us."

Motley made a couple of costly fumbles in Sunday's game here which the Browns lost to the Dons 13-10—their first setback of the season.

Pavo Ketonen, the rough Finn will find his hands full Thursday night at the Marion armory when he tangles with Billy Weidner, the full-Nelson expert. To date Weidner has yet to loose a match while Ketonen holds the same record with the exception of being disqualified once for his roughness.

The other ninety-minute match brings back Gorilla Pogi, the Portuguese grappler who wanted a match with the Red Devil but as Promoter Fishbaugh was unable to sign this match, the Gorilla will have just as rough an opponent in Rufus Jones, the head-butting negro from New York. Both matches will be for the best two out of three falls. A ten-minute prelim between local boys will open the show at 8:30. Markert & Lewis is the place to call for ringside seats.—Adv.

STAGGERING SWAMI FORECASTS SCORES

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO, Oct. 15—The staggering Swami stutters again.

Illinois 14, Minnesota 7—Unless those big Gopher linemen become lavaliers around the neck of Perr Moss, Bernie Bierman's boys are in for their first licking of the season.

Michigan 32, Northwestern 6—The wounded Wildcats won't know what hit 'em. Fritz Crisler has an in-and-out Michigan team—11 guys rush in and slam over a touchdown and then rush out while 11 defensive hot-shots sit on the opposition for a while.

Ohio State 13, Iowa 7—Here's a long-shot special. The Buckeyes can't be kicked around forever, not with their gang of potentially good backs. That's voting in the face of Iowa's new-found passing punch, DiMarco to Tunnell.

Wisconsin 18, Yale 12—Just on a hunch that a Midwestern so-so club is better than any Ivy league killer-diller. The Badgers will have to be a lot smarter and display fonder affection for the ball than against California when they fumbled nine times.

Indiana 18, Pittsburgh 12—Battered on successive Saturdays by Illinois, Notre Dame and Michigan, the Panthers meet an overdue Indiana team.

Others: Purdue 21, Boston university 6; Notre Dame 21, Nebraska 6; Marquette 20, San Francisco 13; Michigan State 14, Iowa State 7.

Night Games O.K., Say Cleveland Educators

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15—A group of Cleveland educators denied today that night football games between high school teams are contributing to juvenile delinquency.

Capt. J. C. Van Burden, head of the youth protective council, had proposed the games be banned and said students were going to beer parlors and other spots after the contests.

Supt. of Cleveland Schools Mark C. Schinnerer said he had observed only good behavior by the pupils.

C. O. Tuck, principal of West Tech High, said "the whole thing is a laugh."

Rev. T. F. Murray, St. Ignatius High school principal, agreed with Tuck that "on Friday and Saturday nights the games are as wholesome recreation as can be found."

Wayne G. Smith, principal of South high said that although he preferred day games, he had observed no rowdyism at night contests.

"The Hermit" Finds Things Aren't What They Used To in Grid World.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—The Hermit came down from his mo tain retreat for his first visit with people in 15 years or so.

He stopped in at the nearest library, found out all about Wo War II, read in the newspapers about UN and nations squabbli and was muttering something about "this is where I came in" when he turned to the sports pages and read

"Penn State 75, Fordham 0.

"Michigan 69, Pittsburgh 0.

"Boston U 38, New York U. 7."

The Hermit, a big guy who probably once looked good in moleskins, whistled.

Changes Made

"What's been going on here," he asked. "The last time I was around the boys were screaming about breaking up the Panthers, Violets and Rams, before those behemoths could massacre everyone on eastern gridirons.

Jock Sutherland still is in Pittsburgh, he was told, only now he's with the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football league. Sleepy Jim Crowley no longer is moulding blocks of granite at Fordham but is doing his worrying over the Chicago Rockets of the All-America conference.

"What conference?" Mr. Hermit asked.

He was told to skip it as things were complicated enough.

Chick Meehan is just a memory at N.Y.U. He was informed further, however, that Ken Strong still is around booting field goals—for the New York Giants.

"But those scores," he asked, "they're typos, aren't they?"

No, no typos, was the reply.

It's Big 9 Now

"SPEAKING FRANKLY"— By James F. Byrnes

Byrnes Goes to Yalta Against His Wishes

This is a serialization of James F. Byrnes' "Speaking Frankly"—six of 15 chapters of the book published Oct. 15, 1947, by Harper & Brothers. Copyright 1947 by James F. Byrnes [illegible] (A Charitable Trust).

DURING Christmas week of 1944, I was in the President's study talking to him about the [illegible] problem. As he looked up from the memorandum I had given him, he said

"Jimmy, I want you to go with me on this trip to the Crimea."

It was a complete surprise. He had talked with me about the forthcoming meeting with Stalin and Churchill a number of times, but there had been no hint that I should be a member of the [illegible].

"I know what went on at the other meetings," he added, "and as director of mobilization you have acquired a knowledge of our domestic problems that will be of great service in settling economic questions that are certain to come [illegible]."

"When you are out of town," I told him, "the machinery doesn't stop. Problems like the one we are now discussing constantly arise. I think I should remain here and work on those [illegible]."

He insisted, however, that I should go. I agreed, but I was not happy about it.

We did not discuss it again until the day scheduled for our departure. That afternoon the OWMR staff met to discuss the problems that were expected to arise during my absence. The discussion convinced me more than ever that I should not go. I left the meeting and went over to see the President. He was having his hair cut by John Mays, the colored man who has greeted visitors at the front door of the White House on formal occasions for 36 years. Mays came to the White House from South Carolina during the administration of President Taft, and ever since has acted as barber and enjoyed the confidence of the residents of the White House. He is not only courteous and dignified, he is wise and discreet.

AS MAYS CONTINUED clipping, I again urged that I should remain in Washington. I outlined the problems we anticipated during the month he would be away. He had been so absorbed in foreign affairs he did not appreciate the number of questions and decisions then devolving on the director of war mobilization and reconversion. In fact, I had tried, in so far as possible, to keep domestic issues from intruding upon his consideration of foreign problems. The President persisted in his view that I should go, and I finally agreed. That night we left for Norfolk, where, in the early morning darkness of Jan. 23, we boarded the heavy cruiser USS Quincy, which was to take us as far as Malta.

When we left Washington the President was suffering from a severe cold. On board ship it grew worse and he stayed in his cabin most of the time. He would come to lunch and dinner and after dinner attend a moving picture. But only once or twice was he able to sit on deck, until we reached the Mediterranean.

We were at sea on the President's birthday, Jan. 30, and his daughter, Mrs. John Boettiger, made the birthday dinner a gala occasion. Gifts purchased from the ship's commissary were presented to the President. His devoted Filipino chef insisted on providing a birthday cake. But others had the same idea. The commissioned officers presented one, so did the enlisted men and the warrant officers. When four cakes arrived, one of our group, who remembered that the President had just been inaugurated to serve a fourth term, went out and procured a fifth cake. A large candle was stuck into it which the President was challenged to blow out.

ALTHOUGH HE RESPONDED to the gaiety of the occasion I was disturbed by his appearance. I feared his illness was not due entirely to a cold and expressed this concern to Mrs. Boettiger. She thought my opinion arose from observing him during the moving pictures, when she usually sat on one side of the President and I on the other. She explained that, while looking at the pictures, the President would have his mouth open because of his sinus trouble and that this made him look badly, but he was not really ill. Dr. McIntyre also expressed the President's appearance was due to the combination of sinus infection and cold. Since he had so often "bounced back" after an illness, I dismissed my fears.

By the time we reached Malta he had improved greatly. As the Quincy approached its anchorage we saw Prime Minister Churchill, in navy uniform, waving a greeting to the President from the deck of the H. M. S. Sirius across the channel. Shortly thereafter he and his daughter, Section Officer Sarah Oliver, came aboard for lunch. There were 10 of us at lunch and discussion of the approaching conference was only general. The President did, however, confide to Churchill his plans to visit King Ibn Saud on his return trip to discuss the Palestine question. He wanted to bring about peace between the Arabs and the Jews. Churchill wished him good luck but didn't seem very hopeful that the President would meet with success. He didn't.

That night the President traveled for the first time in the Sacred Cow. Months earlier I had tried to induce him to use this airplane, built for his use and provided with an elevator which could be lowered from the plane to the ground, for his trips to Hyde Park and Warm Springs. He told me he disliked to fly; he disliked the monotony of looking at the skies. His other objection was more surprising. He thought an unnecessary expense had been incurred in fitting a plane solely for his personal use. He said he had not been consulted about it and he did not approve it. This from a man who often had been accused of being the greatest spender ever to hold the office of president!

SO FAR AS I COULD SEE, the President had made little preparation for the Yalta conference. His inauguration had taken place the Saturday before we left and for 10 days preceding that he had been overwhelmed with engagements. On the cruiser the President, Admiral Leahy and I, on four or five occasions, usually after dinner, discussed some of the questions to be considered, particularly the proposal for the United Nations. But not until the day before we landed at Malta did I learn that we had on board a very complete file of studies and recommendations prepared by the state department. I asked the President if the department had given him any material and he advised me it was all in the custody of Lieutenant William M. Rigdon. Later, when I saw some of these splendid studies I greatly regretted they had not been considered on board ship. I am sure the failure to study them while enroute was due to the President's illness. And I am sure that only President Roosevelt, with his intimate knowledge of the problems, could have handled the situation so well with so little preparation.

Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius who had gone ahead by air joined us at Malta. We were met also by Mr. Hopkins, who had been visiting in London, Paris and Rome. Harry was sick. He took off for Yalta in the first available airplane and during the conference was confined to his bed most of the time. His great courage caused him to attend every session of the conference, but immediately after adjournment he would retire to his room. Members of our delegation frequently held meetings there because Dr. McIntyre insisted he remain in bed.

THERE WERE SOME UNEASY minds in our party as we took off from Malta. Our pilots were unfamiliar with the airfield at Saki, where, we understood, there had been a considerable snowfall. We had conflicting reports on the hazards of the drive from Saki across the mountains to Yalta. There also was some fear of typhus, as we were told the Germans had left the place infested with vermin.

These worries were based on an underestimation of the prodigious effort the Russians exerted to demonstrate their hospitality. The landing strip at Saki was swept clear of every snowflake. The road from the field to Yalta, 80 miles away, was guarded by an unbroken line of Soviet troops, many of them girls—girls with guns. Livadia Palace, which was our headquarters and the scene of the meetings, was immaculate. We were told the Germans had completely ransacked it, leaving behind only two paintings out of all the furnishings in the huge building which had been a summer home for the Czars. Although some of the conveniences we fortunate Americans are accustomed to were missing, the Russians, with only three weeks advance notice, had done an amazing job in completely renovating the place.

As we were shown to our rooms we were told what they had been used for when the Czars were in residence. We soon learned Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King had been assigned to the Czarina's boudoir. He was reminded of it throughout the conference.

In a second installment, to be published tomorrow, Mr. Byrnes describes the opening of the Yalta Conference. Allied armies were driving across Germany's frontiers and the statesmen in the Crimea were concerned first of all with the setting up of a Control Council for Germany and with the problem of reparations. In tomorrow's installment Mr. Byrnes quotes from the discussion of these issues by Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin.

30-CENT PRICE HIKE IN STEAK REPORTED

By The United Press

The price of roundsteak has risen an average of 30 cents a pound in the year since price controls were removed, a price survey in representative cities showed today.

The average increase of four selected cuts of meat—roundsteak, rolled rib roast, leg of lamb and T-bone steak—was about 22 cents a pound, the survey showed.

The price check was made in seven cities—New York, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Cleveland, Atlanta, Ga., Minneapolis and Columbus.

Price ceilings were finally and permanently removed from meat Oct. 15, 1946—a year ago today.

The survey, conducted by United Press, showed that the price of rolled rib roast advanced an average of 20 cents in the seven cities. The average price of leg of lamb increased 15½ cents, and T-bone steak rose more than 24 cents a pound.

The American Meat Institute, which represents the nation's meat packers, said, however, that comparisons between present prices and OPA ceiling failed to take into account the price of meat in the black market during OPA.

"You can't very well compare no hamburger at all at 27 cents a pound with hamburger which you can walk into a store and buy for 40 cents," a spokesman said.

The atmosphere of the earth weighs 5,633 000 000 000 000 tons.

Memento of Harding Campaign Finally Returns To Museum

Another interesting item has been added to the valuable collection of personal effects and mementoes presented to President and Mrs. Harding, at the Harding Home and museum. It is a small flag on a standard which played a part in Mr. Harding's presidential campaign and later was taken by him to the White House where it was on his desk. The flag is the gift of the Warren G Harding Chapter No. 31, Order of the Eastern Star, of Washington, D. C., and was presented to the home and museum by Mrs. Walter J Hausman, worthy matron of the chapter, a short time ago.

The interesting history of the flag relates that during the presidential campaign the flag served as a barometer of good and bad news reaching campaign headquarters in the Christian home adjoining the Harding home on Mt Vernon avenue. When the news was favorable the flag was raised to the top of the flagpole but when unfavorable tidings reached the office it was lowered.

After President Harding's death the articles on his desk were given to members of his cabinet. The flag was presented to Secretary of War Weeks and when he retired to private life he gave mementoes to members of his staff of assistants. The flag was given to Arthur Suydam, who placed it in the keeping of his sister, Miss Elizabeth Suyram, a member of the Order of the Eastern Star in Washington. Miss Suydam gave it to the Warren G Harding chapter, organized during his term as President and named in his honor, and it has been one of the chapter's prized possessions.

In keeping with the wish of the worthy matron, Mrs. Hausman who felt that the proper resting place for the souvenir was in the Harding museum, the chapter members, at a recent meeting, voted to place it permanently near its early home

The flag, encased in a glass container and bearing a brief history, was brought to the home by Mrs Hausman and presented to J. Fred Dombaugh, director, and Mrs Dombaugh, in the presence of Mrs Fred L. Carhart, a past worthy matron of Lydia Chapter No. 83, Order of the Eastern Star

GIFT IS SENT TO HOSPITAL

March of Dimes Funds Go to Institution Serving Marion County Patients.

Dr. Frederick Rea, chairman of the Marion county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, reported today that a check for $1,000 had been mailed to Children's hospital in Columbus.

The donation fulfilled the pledge made at a meeting of the central Ohio chapters held in July at Columbus.

At that time it was announced that the Timken Roller Bearing Co. of Canton was contributing $100,000 to the Columbus hospital if a like sum could be raised. The money was to be used to construct a new wing at the hospital to accommodate 75 beds to be used exclusively for paralysis cases.

An additional $30,000 was still needed and the Columbus meeting was the result. At that time representatives from the central Ohio counties who were present pledged to contribute so the total could be raised.

Dr Rea explained that Marionites should be informed of the reason for sending the contribution to an out-of-town hospital.

Paralysis cases from this section of the state are sent to the Children's hospital for the quarantine period as well as for treatment Other hospitals which are equipped to care for the afflicted are located too far to be of practical use to the central section.

Infantile paralysis cases must be hospitalized in an institution which is equipped to give the best treatment.

Dr. Rea, in a communication from the hospital upon receipt of the Marion donation, learned that the funds from this chapter were to be used for equipment necessary when the new wing is completed.

That additional space for the cases is needed desperately was revealed in the recent report by Robert M. Porter, superintendent of Children's hospital. In his report earlier this week, he stated that 168 patients were now hospitalized in the 120-bed institution and 16 are iron lung cases.

DULLES TO IGNORE VISHINSKY ATTACK

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 15—John Foster Dulles will ignore Andrei Y. Vishinsky's bitter attack on Secretary of State Marshall's proposal to revise United Nations machinery, an American source said today.

The U. S. delegate, whom the Russians have labeled a "warmonger," planned to await reaction from other delegates in the assembly's 57-nation political committee and make no reply to the Soviet deputy foreign minister's latest blast.

Dulles was reported to agree with Dr. Herbert Vevatt of Australia, who told the committee shortly after Vishinsky's blistering 57-minute speech yesterday that attacks on the motives of other delegates are becoming "stale."

A series of amendments was anticipated and the major task appeared to be to keep the plan within the bounds laid down by Marshall.

As Russia headed for another apparent defeat on the continuous assembly issue, the Arab countries began their last-round battle against the U. S for supporting the partition of Palestine into separate Jewish and Arab countries. So far the Arabs have touched lightly on Russia, which also supports partition.

Victory Medals Now At Recruiting Station

Marion World War II veterans who have War Department authorization to wear the victory medal may receive the medal now at the army and air force recruiting station at 188 South Main street. Major Lee Burnham, recruiting officer, announced today.

Although several million veterans have earned this medal by virtue of wartime service, the medal itself has but recently been coined by the United States mint and no general distribution yet made, Major Burnham said.

He estimated about 300 veterans in this community are eligible to receive the medal. Presentation will be made at the recruiting office upon showing discharge certificate or similar papers bearing the required authorization to wear the medal. Most of the eligible veterans discharged since V-J day have the notation of authorization on their discharge papers, Major Burnham said.

New York Stock Quotations

1 O'CLOCK QUOTATIONS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—Stocks found a lively demand again in today's market and leading shares pushed ahead in an extension of Tuesday's rally.

Buying orders for an assortment of industrials crowded the exchange facilities at the opening and the ticker tape fell two minutes behind floor transactions for a brief period.

Attaining higher ground were Goodrich, American Can, U. S. Rubber, J. I. Case, Schenley, Archer-Daniels-Midland (on an extra dividend), General Electric, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Johns-Manville, Youngstown Sheet, Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio, New York Central, American Smelting, Packard (with two 10,000-share blocks changing hands) and North American.

Lagging were Douglas Aircraft, Cerro De Pasco and Westinghouse Electric.

GUN SHOT

when Mrs. Carrie Millisor of 166 Plymouth street sent her son to investigate what she thought was the sound of a kerosene stove exploding. She told police she heard the noise shortly after Mr. Witzel entered the house and thought it was the explosion of a stove. The son, Glenn, returned to the Millisor porch immediately and told his mother about the accident and was instructed to notify the police.

Chief Marks said they found Mr. Witzel lying on the floor of the front bedroom with the 12-gauge single barrel shotgun still clutched in his right hand. Police said apparently he had been standing erect when the gun was fired. The left side of the head was wounded and apparently it had been a glancing shot, Chief Marks said, since most of the charge was imbedded in the ceiling.

Dies Four Hours Later

He was taken to City hospital in the Merle H. Hughes ambulance where he died four hours later.

Mr. Witzel and Frank Holcomb had occupied the Plymouth street house for two years. Mr. Holcomb arrived home from work at approximately the same time the police found Mr. Witzel. Police were told that there was nothing unusual in his behavior yesterday and apparently there was no motive for a suicide.

He was employed as a night janitor at the Commercial Steel Casting Co. where he had worked for a year. A check of the plant revealed he had not been to work since Sept. 26.

Born Near Windfall

Mr. Witzel was born Jan. 15, 1883, near Windfall to Jacob and Theresa Huebner Witzel. He was married Dec. 9, 1907, to the former Alice Radel who survives. A resident of Marion county all his life, he moved to Marion seven years ago.

Surviving with his widow are a daughter, Mrs. Elmer Schorr of Cardington, three sons, Milo and Lester Witzel of Waldo and Wallace of Caledonia, one sister, Mrs. Henry Kramer of Cardington, three brothers, Charles and Walter Witzel of Waldo and Frank Witzel of near Marion.

Private funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the Curl Mortuary in Cardington with Rev. H. K. Diener, pastor of St. John Lutheran church of Windfall officiating. Burial will be in the Glendale cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p. m. tonight.

Judge Revokes Auto License of Youth, 17

Juvenile Judge Edward J. Ruzzo yesterday revoked for one year the operator's license of a 17-year-old Marion youth, charged with reckless operation and placed a 15 and 16-year-old boy and girl on six months probation, charged with creating a disturbance in their immediate neighborhood.

Two other girls, both 14, were placed in the Marion county detenion home until further disposition by the court. All were picked up by city police on the city streets.

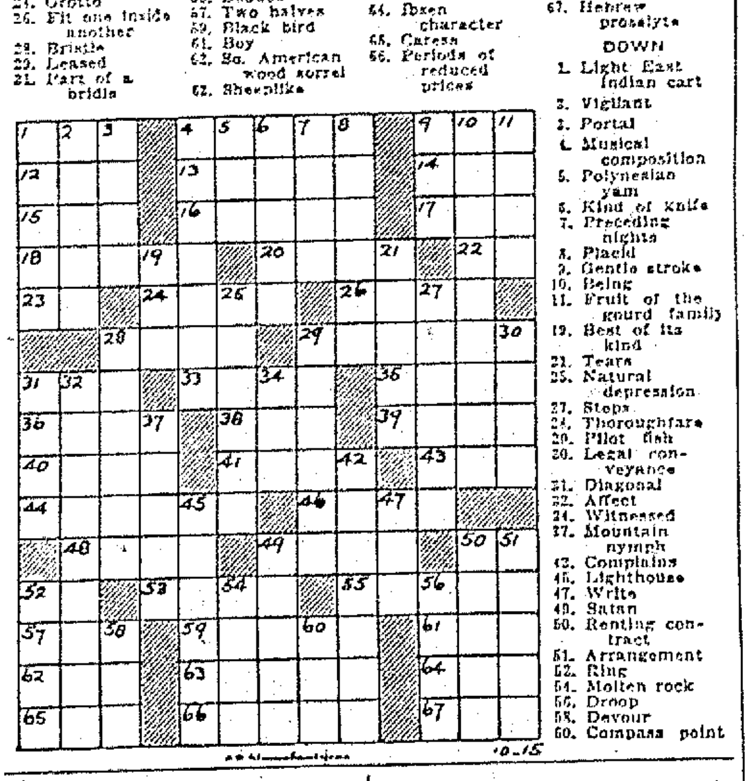
Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle



Tribute to Hardings Carried in Magazine

A tribute to the Harding Memorial and to President Warren G. Harding and Mrs. Harding, who are buried there, was paid in an article entitled "The Harding Memorial" in the September issue of The New Age. The magazine is the official publication of The Supreme Council Thirty-Third Degree of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry of the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States of America. Author of the article is Ray Baker Harris of Washington, D. C.

In his description of the memorial, Mr. Harris said "although of stone and marble, it has a special quality. A circular colonnade, it has no formal doorway, and, more unusual, it is open to the sky, to sunshine and to rain." He also explained that the open space in which the memorial stands is in the shape of a cross, and this space is enclosed by many trees.

Mr. Harris writes in the article that President Harding was the first President of the United States to be elected to receive the Thirty-third Degree in the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction. However, he died before the degree was conferred.
